No Provision Made for Salaries In New Appropriation Bill

NO "LUMP SUMS" TO VARIOUS DEPARTMENTS.

INTRODUCTION MONDAY

Passage Is Expected Tuesday—Appropriation Bill Based On Budget System Carries a Total of Six Million Dollars for Period of Four and One-Half Months.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, Feb. 13.—Ohio's first itemized appropriations bill, based on a budget system was completed today by the house finance committee, and will be introduced in the house Monday with passage expected Tuesday. The bill carries a total of about $6,000,000 for the period February 16 to June 30.

All appropriations are specific, and no "lump sums" are included. Members of the finance committee predicted the efficiency of the state government would be increased by the newly-created system of tightening expenditures, giving sums for specific purposes.

A number of state employees will be eliminated by the bill, since no appropriations are made for their salaries. This is true particularly of the state highway department where there will be cut from the payroll four division engineers at an average salary of $2,250 a year each, five other engineers at an average salary of $1,500 and the engineer who heretofore edited the department's magazine, with a salary of $2,100. No allowance has been made for the magazine maintenance and it will be abolished. The private secretary to Commissioner James R. Marker is to receive $1,500 instead of $2,100 as at present.

Previous appropriations bills not based on a budget system allowed for many departments "receipts and balances," thus allowing the department to spend all it could collect from fees or other sources and all it had saved from previous appropriation periods. This was conducive to extravagance, members of the finance committee hold.

The new bill provides that all "receipts and balances" shall go into the general revenue fund. The bill then allows definite sums for not only each department, but for specific purposes within each department. Instead of making a lump appropriation for "personal service," or salaries, the new bill contains such a provision as this: "Four clerks at $1200, total $4,800."

Similarly definite appropriations are made for supplies. Officials will not be allowed to transfer monies from one fund to another within a department's appropriation, as they have done in the past.

One or two clerks are omitted from most departments, and commissions. It was estimated by members of the finance committee that the total saving to be effected by this bill for the four and one-half months appropriation period is between $700,000 and $900,000. The saving in the highway department in salaries alone will be more than $25,000. Harry Bradbury, formerly of Cleveland, a detective who worked on the legislative bribery cases four years ago, will be deprived of his job of editing the highway department's magazine.

AWAIT REPORT OF ALIENIST

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
New York, Feb. 13.—Officials of Westchester county awaited today the complete report of Dr. M. S. Gregory, the Bellevue alienist, on the mental condition of Frederick Mors, before deciding on the course of their investigation of Mors' confession that he hastened the deaths of eight aged inmates to the German Odd Fellows home at Yonkers. In a preliminary report on Thursday, Dr. Gregory stated that Mors was "mentally unwell."

Germans Sneaking Back After Planting Underground Bomb Near the French Trenches

This photograph shows German soldiers sneaking back from a tunnel which led them near the French trenches. A score or more of them dug their way in the direction in which their guns pointed, just in front of the butt of the tree seen in the background, all the way, a quarter of a mile or more, to the French trenches and there planted bombs that could be touched off by electricity when the Frenchmen could be lured to the ground. The two men coming from the trenches were the leaders of twenty more, yet in the deep, dark hole they had to sneak back very quietly, keeping out of sight so the enemy would not see them coming from the hole. Their guns were left in place, that the French might think a man was behind each. In fact, this particular trench might have been taken while the Germans were digging underground, had the enemy known it.

English Aviators Raid German Positions; But Little Damage Is Done

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Berlin, Feb. 13.—(By wireless to London.)—The English aviators who yesterday raided German positions on the Belgian coast, caused injury to the civil population but from the military point of view, the damage they did was slight, according to the announcement on the progress of the war, given out in Paris this afternoon.

In France the Germans occupied 1200 yards of French trenches while in East Prussia the German operations are progressing successfully. The report calls attention to the allegation that on German's western battle front (in France and Belgium) artillery ammunition, which "doubtless originated in America," has been found in the hands of the allies.

In the western theater of the war: Enemy aviators again dropped bombs on the coast. The bombs caused regrettable damage to the civil population, while from the military point of view we suffered only slight losses.

The number of prisoners taken during the attacks which were reported yesterday to the west of London, was increased today by four officers and 478 men. Before our front 200 of the enemy's men were found killed while our losses in these engagements in killed and injured amounts to 90 men.

North of Massiges, to the northwest of St. Menchould, another 1200 meters of the French positions were taken in continuation of our attacks of Feb. 3.

The enemy attempted to make an attack on the Sudelkopf, in the Vosges, but was everywhere repulsed without difficulty.

In the eastern theater of the war: On both side of the East Prussian frontier our operations are everywhere progressing successfully. Wherever the enemy attempts to resist his opposition is quickly broken.

In Poland: On the right bank of the Vistula our attacking troops crossed the lower Skwa and are proceeding in the direction of Racibor.

On the left bank of the Vistula there is nothing of importance to report.

Los Angeles, Calif., Feb. 13.—The will of Elliott M. Best, who died here recently, said he had searched the country vainly for his daughters, Ethel and Alice, who were taken from his home 35 years ago by their mother. He left half of his estate of $17,451 to them, but stipulated if they were not found the entire property was to go to his housekeeper.

Yesterday letters were received by the probate clerk here from the two daughters, now living at Rochester, N. Y., claiming their share of the estate.

TWO KILLED IN GAS EXPLOSION EARLY TODAY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Toledo, O., Feb. 13.—One man was killed and another is missing, believed to be under the wreckage of a two-story brick building, totally destroyed by an explosion of gas early today. The body of Charles Demeyer, 36, has been recovered from the wreckage, but Stephen Bosson, owner of the premises, cannot be located. The blast followed the opening of his store door by Bosson, a butcher, the cause being unknown, but presumably from a leaky gas main.

Russians Declare Decisive Conflict Has Not Yet Been Fought—Great Losses Sustained By Both Sides While Battling In the Carpathians—Emperor William at the Front.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, Feb. 13.—The retirement of the Russian forces in East Prussia and the British air raid on the coast of Belgium, appear today as the biggest factors in the military situation. On the other hand, the diplomatic field would seem to be dominated by the American notes to Great Britain and Germany, especially to Germany, where the newspapers and the public, according to news dispatches reaching here from Berlin are insisting in spite of Washington's protest and in spite of possible consequences, that the German submarine policy must be pursued relentlessly.

The gist of German opinion, as it has been thus far transmitted to London, would appear to be that neutral powers have been efficiently warned to keep out of the military area, and inasmuch as Germany is facing starvation at the hands of Great Britain, there is no other course for her to pursue.

As in other important encounters in the Eastern arena of the war, the claims of the opponents disagree as to the strategic importance of the German advance into East Prussia. The Germans are hailing it as a great victory and Berlin is decorated with flags, while Petrograd declares that the Russians are deliberately realigning their forces on their own territory supported by their own forces and that the decisive conflict is yet to come.

The battling in the Carpathians is going on in the snow, but the information from this field of activities is most scant and the indications reaching London are that it is still a see-saw affair with both sides sustaining enormous losses.

Further to the south, the Austrians contend that they are continuing their advance into Bukovina. Military experts in London are of the opinion that the Carpathian front still remains an area of prime importance in the East, where a decisive victory by either side would force the abandonment by the other of territory in East Prussia or Poland.

The fact that a British air raid in such force as was evidenced in the aerial expedition of yesterday has been carried out successfully over the German positions in Belgium is taken in London to indicate that such aerial activity against German submarine bases, promised at the time when the German policy of blockade was announced, is to be continued. Great Britain has many new aeroplanes under construction (Continued on Page 10, Col. 5.)

She Asks Seed Grain for Her Native Serbia.

Miss Helen Losanitch, daughter of the former minister of agriculture in Serbia, who is here pictured in her native costume, has come to the United States with a companion, Mme. Grouitch, wife of the Serbian under-secretary of foreign affairs, to ask Americans to send seed grain and agricultural implements to her stricken country. Serbia with Poland and Belgium is the greatest sufferer of the war. Hundreds of square miles have been devastated. The ruin and suffering in northern France do not approach that which Serbia has gone through. Miss Losanitch has been very active in organizing many field hospitals for the Serbian army. There was no regular Red Cross society in Serbia and the circle of Serbian sisters, of which Miss Losanitch was one of the leading spirits, determined to supply the lack. The women trained themselves in nursing and first aid, with the result that when Serbia was at war with Turkey, the army was well supplied with a firmly established and well trained hospital corps.

Aged Victim of Robber Recovers Sufficiently To Give Name of Assailant

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Gibsonburg, O., Feb. 13.—During a short period of consciousness, today, Joel Kimble, 73, is said to have told Sheriff Skibie, of Wood county, the name of the man who early yesterday shot him and beat him into insensibility, murdered Mrs. Kimble, 71, and ransacked their country home near here. The sheriff refused to divulge the name of the alleged murderer, but said he expected to make an arrest soon.

Physicians said today that Kimble "has a fighting chance to recover." He has four bullet wounds in his body and it is feared his skull is fractured as a result of having been beaten over the head with a pitchfork handle. Mrs. Kimble, who was shot and beaten, died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

Kimble, during a period of consciousness today, told the sheriff that he was in the barn milking when the murderer appeared and began shooting with a revolver. Although wounded four times, Kimble said he grappled with his assailant, who then beat him over the head with a pitchfork handle. It was during this conversation with the sheriff that Kimble divulged the name of his assailant, the sheriff said.

After shooting and beating Mrs. Kimble at the house and searching for money, the murderer is supposed to have escaped in a buggy. Evidence was discovered which indicated that the horse attached to the buggy was tied to a tree in a woods not far from the Kimble home.

Whether the assailant of the aged couple obtained much money from the house has not been determined but he spent some time breaking open trunks and closets in quest of the cash he believed was concealed therein.

FOG CAUSE OF COLLISION ON SOUTHWESTERN

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Cincinnati, Feb. 13.—Slippery rails caused by the thick fog, was the cause of an accident at Winton Place today, when Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern commuter train No. 27 from Loveland, was unable to get a grip on itself and slid into a Big Four passenger train, which was standing at the station. Passengers in both trains were shaken up and frightened. After a delay of about an hour during which the passengers stayed in their seats, the two trains moved into the city.

The front of the Baltimore and Ohio engine was badly stove in and another engine had to be obtained. The Big Four car that bore the brunt of the impact, was but slightly damaged.

REPLY TO AMERICAN ULTIMATUM

Regarding the Use of Our Flag By British Will Be Satisfactory

ENGLISH PRESS COMMENTS ON SITUATION.

IMMENSE SIGNIFICANCE

Attached to the Phase In American Note to Germany Which Has Not Yet Been Made Known to the German Press—Zeitung Reproduces Article By Naval Expert.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Feb. 13.—That the British government will have no difficulty in giving a satisfactory reply to the American note on the use of the American flag by their merchantmen is the contention of the afternoon papers of London, which virtually unite in expressing the opinion that a neutral flag will be used by British vessels only as an intimation to German warships that there are neutral passengers and goods aboard.

The Pall Mall Gazette attaches "immense significance" to the phrase in the American note to Germany—"or cause the death of American citizens"—as meaning that Americans aboard British ships will be equally protected by the home government as those on board American ships.

The Evening Standard basing its judgment on the tenor of the American notes says: "It is plain in which direction America looks for the possibility of trouble. If Germany does not now understand the meaning of the note and realize the false position into which she has been led by the arrangement of the official minds in Berlin, she must abide by the issue."

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Berlin, via London, Feb. 13.—Disappointment that neutral powers have not asked specific guarantees from England that she desist from the misuse of neutral flags, is expressed by the Kreuz Zeitung, which says such guarantees are improbable now since "the most powerful" neutral has not even protested decidedly. The paper asserts that sales of arms and ammunition "not to mention ampler support of our enemies now tolerated," cannot be reconciled with President Wilson's unobjectionable interpretation of true neutrality at the beginning of the war. The text of the American note has not yet been made known to the German press and the comment up to the present time has been based entirely on news agency dispatches from Washington, giving a brief synopsis of the communication.

The Koelnische Zeitung has republished prominently from the Tages Zeitung an article by Count von Reventlow, the naval critic, concerning Germany's declaration of a marine war zone around the British isles. In this article, Count von Reventlow refers to the report that the Washington government intended to ask how Germany proposed to make neutral shipping safe in these waters and says:

"This marine war zone was announced by the German government for the reason that safety of navigation therein cannot be guaranteed. The vessels of neutrals enter upon this war zone only at their own risk. This condition of affairs, and the consequences it may bring after Feb. 18, cannot be changed or influenced by any representations or demands from Washington. It is equally out of the question that the identity of every ship with a neutral flag be ascertained. A submarine mine cannot learn this identity and such a course is equally impossible for a submarine boat."

In concluding this article, Count von Reventlow says:

"The German declaration in itself must furnish proof to Americans that the possible destruction of American ships after Feb. 18, cannot afford the Washington government any ground for complaint of any nature against the German government but that the American government and the shippers themselves must bear the responsibility if they permit their vessels to enter this war zone. "We gather the impression here from expressions reaching Germany from across the water that if the American people believe they can handle the German government as they desire by pressure and threats they will fool themselves."

Lighting Newark Streets

Cost of Production.
Editor of the Advocate:
In further relation to the matter of new electric light plant. The cost of electricity as estimated by the city is all based on the plant operating in full, without any conditions, such as leakage of electricity, repairs, breakdown, fire loss, etc., while all of this is included and a part of the additional price asked by the Ohio Light & Power Co.
It must be borne in mind that a large organization like the Ohio Light & Power Co., who is selling electricity not only to Newark, but to Zanesville and other towns, from this station, can sell at a profit, and make some money, as compared with a smaller plant, which would operate under like conditions, at a loss.
CITIZEN.

Some Pointed Observations.
Editor of the Advocate:
It might be well in view of the agitation to re-build the municipal light plant and issue bonds in the sum of $25,000 to $30,000 for that purpose to call attention to the present bonded indebtedness of the city.
The present tax duplicate of the city of Newark is in round numbers $30,000,000 and it is fair to say this sum represents the actual value of the property of the people of the city, both real and personal, so far as the same can be ascertained by the utmost diligence of the taxing officers.
The bonded indebtedness of the city is as follows:
January 1, 1915.
General bonds $ 925,567.16
Special bonds 93,257.35
Subway bonds 240,000.00
Total $1,258,824.51
A sinking fund is created by law for the payment of these bonds and interest.
Every good citizen owning a house worth $2400 will have to pay $100 with interest on the same as his share of this debt, and if you own property of less value than $2400 or more than $2400 your proportion of this debt is in the proportion 24 to 1. You have $24 you pay $1.
Now the limit of bonded indebtedness which the law allows is five per cent., or with us our limit is $1,500,000. A vote of the people will not increase this amount.
There are a number of improvements the city needs. There are some things we cannot buy. We need a general sewer system very much. The old system put in 30 to 40 years ago has been found inadequate for our present purpose and needs. In time we will need an extension of our water system. We need a new city prison very much, the present one being old and out of date, and a number of such things might be suggested. These things we must build ourselves. These we can not buy.
The point is, would it not be ordinary business prudence for the city to buy light current when it can be bought cheaper than we can produce it and spend the money we are permitted to borrow in getting the things we will need that no person or corporation can possibly furnish us at any price?
A good sanitary sewer system is a crying need of our city and it can not be built for $250,000. Such a system we should have as will meet the needs of the future.
Newark is a growing city and its future will make large demands upon us.
TAXPAYER.

Favors Municipal Plant.
Editor of the Advocate:
I want to be fair in all my dealings and until I am convinced otherwise I will believe the other fellow to be the same.
I don't believe it would be fair for the city to enlarge the municipal electric plant large enough to go into the commercial lighting (as some have spoken in favor of) for the reason that the city granted a franchise to the light company for this purpose, and they have their plant and distribution system for this purpose in the city at a great expense and are giving good service. When granting the franchise the city maintained the right to manufacture current as a fund to bring to our city new industries. Such use of this sum of money would contribute to essentially one thing, the increase of population, which upon its part contributes to but one essential, namely, the increase of land values and rentals. Consequently, we grant that the effort to raise such a fund for such a use was a consistent undertaking.
Now, our city lighting benefits the land owner to a greater extent than he who owns no land, yet by a bond issue every variety of tax upon the duplicate contributes its share, and that share required for the proposed issue of bonds for renewing or replacing our present electric lighting plant will amount to one dollar on the thousand dollars, just as requested by the Board of Trade for factory purposes. Moreover, the taxpayer will have ten long years in which to pay this dollar, on the thousand dollars, if he has to pay it at all, for within ten years our plant will be furnishing electricity for commercial purposes, in consequence of which it will become more than self-sustaining. And to him who can see, this is the very reason that the local corporation furnishing commercial electricity is so desirous of breaking down our present system, that they may break down competition as well, and be eventually able to dictate their own terms.
I am amused at the figures handled so adroitly by the corporation crowd. One lawyer states that Mr. Christian is not an experienced electrician, and disputes his figures. How about Mr. Lawyer's figures? For my part, I prefer Mr. Christian. For he certainly knows more about electricity than Mr. Lawyer. However, it may be possible that the lawyer gentleman obtained his figures from the Ohio Light & Power Co., and I could not consider figures from that source for a moment.
Citizens of Newark good times are coming, beware lest you have surrendered too much of your freedom and power to conduct your own affairs when the crucial period arrives. Recollect, you are dealing in future. Let no paltry one-fourth cent dim your vision or you will have much to answer for and much to regret.
ERNEST T. JOHNSON.

Mr. Evans' Observations.
Editor of the Advocate:
Newark is very much like the boy that outgrew his clothes. It did outgrow its water system. Now its sewerage and lighting systems are inadequate.
We issued bonds and built a new municipal water plant, which cost us many thousand dollars more than it should and will cost several thousand dollars more before filtration plant is complete and meets requirements of our citizens.
We are now issuing bonds for subways. If some scourge should break out in Newark we would be compelled to build a new sewerage system with disposal plant. With these facts, it certainly would be poor judgment and bad business to issue bonds for $30,000 to build a new municipal light plant, when we could get along with the present plant by giving it what load it could carry well. Then buy current from the Ohio Light & Power Co. to light the remainder of the city, until we could determine which would be the most economical way of lighting the city, build a plant or buy current.
FRED C. EVANS.

A Molder's View.
Editor of the Advocate:
Being interested in municipal affairs I would like space in your paper to give my personal views upon the question of issuing bonds for municipal light plant. I want it understood that I am, and always was in favor of municipal ownership. The city council extended an invitation to all organizations to attend. I attended that meeting as a delegate from Molders Union No. 205. The president, Mr. Keller, announced that commercial light and power should not be discussed. Our delegate representing the Trades and Labor Assembly, presented resolutions adopted by that body. The one concerning the public most was resolution No. 3. To issue bonds, etc., and for the sale of current for commercial light and power. (See Thursday's paper).
Mr. Flory's talk was his experience in municipal affairs and experience is history, more people should have heard them.
Now I think that if the city can furnish water to citizens, it can also furnish light and power, for commercial use. We should have competition. It is the only way to eliminate the tariff which is imposed on the consumers of current by the Ohio Light & Power Co. and until we can have this competition I am opposed to the issuing of more bonds and that the money required to repair the old plant be raised by special tax. The public should know more about this matter. I know the average taxpayer does not object to paying what is right so long as he gets his money's worth.
PHIL GERLACH.

SEVEN CIRCUITS OF LIGHT PLANT USE $17,482 KW.
According to figures contained in a letter received by Service Director Christian, seven of the eight circuits of the municipal light plant consume 17,482 kilowatt hours per year. These figures are the result of tests made of the circuits by H. M. Klingman, assistant manager of the National Lamp Works of Cleveland. The tests were made with a view of determining the best circuits on which to install new lamps, which the company wishes to test out here.
The letter to Mr. Christian gives the amperage of each circuit the total amount being 70.75 amperes, which equals 22,154 kilowatt hours. Engineer Hittner's estimate was 225 kilowatt hours.
Fluorine on the basis of 2360 hours operation per year, would give a total kilowatt hour consumption of $17,482. On a 1,000 hour basis

HAIR, COMING OUT?
Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, set a 25-cent bottle of Dandruft in any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

It would amount to $86,000 kilowatt hours per year.
The tests were made, said Mr. Klingman, by using the factory test instruments which were brought to Newark for the purpose. He also stated that the meters on the switchboard, were very inaccurate.
In discussing the light question further, Mr. Christian states that Engineer Hittner's estimate of kilowatt hour cost for the new plant established at the waterworks, which gave the cost per kilowatt of 1.30 is based on the operation of the plant producing current for the present number of lamps in use. Mr. Christian said:
"His figure of 1.30 per kilowatt hour, which has been ignored by those favoring the purchase of the current, is for the operation of the 300 kilowatt outfit at full load, which would give the extra current necessary to provide the additional lights which the city expects to install whether current is manufactured or purchased."
Mr. Christian also called attention to the meter readings at the light plant which have been used as a basis of figuring cost. He states that mistakes were made by whoever copied the figures. Daily reports which are on file here and which are open to the inspection of citizens at any time, show the following readings:
Jan. 1, 1915—204,727.
Dec. 31, 1914—217,844.
Dec. 31, 1913—339,425.
Dec. 31, 1912—446,970.
Dec. 30, 1911—501,725.
(The night of Dec. 31, 1914 was moonlight and the plant did not operate.)
"These readings," said Mr. Christian, "show that the consumption in 1914 was 547,550 instead of 447,550 as was stated. And these readings were made on meters which are declared by the lighting expert from the National Lamp works to be "very inaccurate."

Bruce Morson, a young American returning from travels in Egypt, is robbed of some valuable jewels in a London hotel, and chases the thieves to the yacht "Spitfire," at Calais, which the crooks have boarded and taken command of. The yacht is about to sail out of port, but by a ruse, Morson manages to get aboard, and promptly falls in love with Valda, Girard's pretty daughter, who is also a "spitfire." The crooks tell Valda her father is a smuggler, and that Morson is a customs officer, spying upon her in order to trap Girard. Valda turns upon Morson, orders him into seaman's uniform, and compels him to work his passage to New York. Morson undergoes many ordeals, and is even accused of the theft of his own property, before the final denouement, which shows the burning of the yacht and the rescue of Valda by Morson, who is at last able to right himself, baffle the thieves, and win the woman he loves.

"As a Man Thinketh in His Heart So is He"

(WRITTEN FOR THE ADVOCATE BY JAMES R. HOPLEY.)

Do our works prove our faith? Are we aimless, spasmodic, and inefficient in our professed desire for personal and civic betterment?

Do we think right thoughts, do good works, prompt better understandings, contribute to better living and better life?

The big forward movement will lag if we do—it we fail in our duty to our cause and to our friends. If we are helping efficiently and continuously there is no reason for regret.

Tomorrow's services will be more inspiring to each of us if we think right thoughts and reflect our thoughts by our works.

It is a privilege to live in these days of individuality; but no man can live unto himself alone—individual freedom is good to have but we must think how our individuality affects those associated with us.

Example and precept must go hand in hand to equip us or real assistance in making better local conditions.

We go from strength to strength; every time we rise to the real capacity of our moral nature we equip ourselves for doing better next time.

Today is not well spent if it has not helped to strengthen your moral fibre and make Good more attractive and more satisfying.

"BE YE TRANSFORMED BY THE RENEWING OF YOUR MIND, THAT YE MAY PROVE WHAT IS THAT GOOD, AND ACCEPTABLE, AND PERFECT WILL OF GOD."

The churches are doing all they can to guide thought and action so that the present may be a step to higher ground.

You need this channel through which to work. We all need better standards of citizenship and this can be had only through acquaintance with the methods of the Man of Galilee.

Everyone owes the community his best effort so that the whole community may be better; organizations working in harmony will develop a noble spirit, a fine appreciation of the advantages good men enjoy.

The best asset in a community is steadfastness of purpose united with morality and advancement.

We make big gains for ourselves by helping to secure better conditions, no one enjoys fully those better conditions who does not help create them.

Tomorrow's church services should find each of us an interested listener, a conscientious co-operator with the thought and purpose of the day and of the services.

Keep in mind the need for purposeful men working together to accomplish a great purpose, strive to be a part of the big plan.

Are you a dreamer? come to your senses! it is a privilege to help; are we fully appreciating it? Make it your duty! Demand your place! Fall in line!

There were ten entrants in the head pin contest on Tuesday night and a keen rivalry existed clear to the finish. Dave Allen won the bowling shoes, Merle Orr the box of candy, and Power Lucas the tie. Quintette contest next week. Every one who belongs is eligible. Better get in.

Saturday night two of the best contests ever witnessed were held in the gym. Archie Goodwin won the ring vault at a height of ten feet, showing splendid form. John Stankard, Chas. Allen, Charles Meyer and Ralph McLaughlin were all close behind at 9 feet or 9 feet and 6 inches. Fred Jones was first in the bar snap for distance, going 6 feet and 8 inches. Fannie Crosby.

The press wire brought word yesterday of the death of Fannie Crosby, the famous hymn writer, who is said to have composed eight thousand church hymns, including "Rescue the Perishing," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "I Shall Meet Him Face to Face," "Saved by Grace," and many others equally well known.

Fanny Crosby's name was signed so frequently as author of one hymn after another that the publishers a quarter of a century ago were forced to give her some 200 different pen names to make it appear that some one besides the famous writer had contributed. She died at the age of ninety-five. Her work as a writer did not start until she was over forty.

Dr. Wm. H. Doane, the Cincinnati composer, after whom Doane Academy at Granville was named, wrote the music for many of Fannie Crosby's verses. Several years ago, Dr. Doane called at Mrs. Crosby's home in New York and told the blind writer that he had to leave in forty minutes for the west but wanted a hymn to fit some music he had just composed. The doctor sat at a piano and played the music. Mrs. Crosby listened, hurried up stairs and sat down to write. In her own words, Mrs. Crosby described what followed:

Habit of Idleness.

In the testimony given the Federal Commission on Industrial Relations, the original ideas of Henry Ford, the millionaire automobile maker, are prominent. The basic principle in Mr. Ford's philosophy is the gospel of work, and he attributes most modern evils to idleness.

In every town there are sons of perpetual rest, who ornament curbstones and park benches, and slouch around the loafing places. It takes only a little money to finance these shiftless children of the lazy sunshine. Hand-outs of old clothes cover their nakedness, and odd jobs now and then keep them from starvation.

Work is usually an acquired taste. Boys rarely have it. As manhood comes on, the youth perceives that the prizes of life are reached only through persistent industry. The drone has a different standard. His contemplative ruminant leisure suits him best of all. He would like houses and lands if they came as a free gift, but he would not pay the price of labor and effort.

He may once have tried to make his place among the world's workers. But never having formed the habit of industry, he became easily discouraged at a few failures.

Mr. Ford is right and human sions of the federal constitution." But there is yet no certainty that Texas really wants to be divided. A pretty gross case of injustice would have to be proved to bring the majority to the willing surrender of the prestige that Texas has had as the largest of the states. While Jefferson is a good name, there are probably many persons in the district proposed for the new state who will dislike the idea of ceasing to be Texans. New Mexico had the chance to come in under another and more distinct name, but declined it through preference for the old.

Shaking Off the Whiners.

(New York World.)
December exports over imports were $132,000,000, or the largest ever known. The January figures, yet to come out, will be even larger. Partial returns for the first week in February indicate a balance of exports over imports of $1,500,000. This is at the rate of $150,000,000 per full month and above $2,000,000,000 a year, and President Farrell of the United States Steel Corporation has said that the practical assurance of a balance of at least $1,000,000,000 for 1915 ought to mean an unprecedented industrial boom.

This is not only what it ought to mean. It is what it must mean as an irresistible effect of trade forces. The calamity-howlers will howl in vain, and vain in the end will be the efforts of the standpat observationists to stop it. The country is already in full command of all the foreign exchanges. Its outside debt is being paid off at an unprecedented rate, and even gold exported at the outset of the war is beginning to come back.

The whiners who whine from habit or for political effect, or to regain a hand-hold on the public treasury, will continue to whine. The country is now in a way to move along without them.

PASSING THE HAT.

Passing the hat, passing the hat! Some one forever gets busy at that! Oh, it seems useless to struggle and strain, all our endeavor is hopeless and vain; when we have gathered a small, slender roll, hoping to lay in some coldwood or coal, hoping to purchase some flour and some spuds, hoping to pay for the ready-made duds, hoping to purchase a bone for the cat, some one comes cheerfully passing the hat! Passing the hat that the bums may be warm passing the hat for some noble reform passing the hat for the fellows who fall, passing the hat to remodel the jail, passing the bonnet for this or for that, some one forever is passing the hat! Dig up your bundles and hand out your roll—if you don't give you are lacking a soul! What if the feet of your children are bare? What if your wife has no corset to wear? What if your granny is weeping for shoes? What if the grocer's demands his dues? Some one will laugh at such logic as that, some one who's merrily passing the hat! Passing the hat for the pink lemonade, passing the hat for a moral crusade, passing the hat to extinguish the rat—some one forever is passing the hat!

STUDY YOUR FEATURES.

About the nose, eyes, and lips of all of us and even the chin, eyelids and forehead, are nuclei of nerves rendering these features peculiarly sensitive and susceptible to change of contour with every passing emotion.

With beautiful, uplifting, kindly thoughts the muscles contract, or shall we say, are normal and the features are lifted; just as, inversely, with depressing or unlovely thoughts and emotions the mouth droops and the muscles generally sag, letting down the features and spoiling the profile as well as the expression.

Then there are little tucks, of expression that improve or mar the outline, and these can be curbed or accentuated to effect and maintain a balance between muscles and nerve centers.

Do not be afraid to patronize your mirror. As some one has said, "Try on your expressions as you try on a hat, adjusting them as you adjust a feather here or a ribbon there," and you will find your mirror your best and most truthful critic in one case as in the other. In the arch of the eyebrows, the fall of the lids over the eyes, and the turn of the eyeglasses, and especially in the line of the mouth and the curve of the lips, there are infinite possibilities.

Pursing the lips or thrusting them out, drawing the mouth to one side, letting the jaw drop or permitting the mouth to droop at the corners—each and all of these things have a marked influence upon the profile, and similarly the chin, thrust forward or too abruptly tip-tilted, has an effect. Then, too, some attention should be paid to the arrangement of the hair in its relation to the profile.

If the nose is too prominent the hair puffed out at the sides tends to counteract, the prominence, from both a profile and a full-face view, and if the nose is too small or flat to harmonize with the contour of the face, then the hair drawn back to project beyond the head at the back has a tendency to lead prominence to the features as viewed profile.

But if the arrangement is important at the sides, it is doubly so over the forehead, where it often happens that a stray lock makes a really ridiculous profile, though quite all right from view. It is rarely becoming to have the forehead bare at the temples nor should a badly wrinkled forehead be fully exposed, however becoming otherwise may be the coiffure requiring it.

Messrs. Serd Provin, Kenneth Pyles, Frederic Day, Leo Brown, Willis Walker, Leland Korb, Raymond Jarvis.

The members of the Iselota club were entertained at the home of Mrs. N. E. Vanatta in Riley street on the club day, and the hours were devoted to needlework and a delicious luncheon was served. There were sixteen members present and the following guests: Miss Olive Pyle and Mrs. Clark Cochran of Helron, and Mrs. Clark Yontz. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Charles Spees in North street.

The F. W. W. club members and their friends pleasantly surprised Meriam Bolander on Thursday evening it being her natal anniversary. They came enmasque, but in a few minutes she was mistress of the situation and began to identify her friends from the grotesque and unique figures. After all masks were removed the evening was spent in music and games, and several solos were sung by Mr. George Beck.

At a late hour dainty refreshments were served by Miss Neva Bolander and Lillian Ruff. The hostess received a great number of pretty gifts both useful and ornamental. After a most delightful evening all guests departed, extending all good wishes for many more happy birthday anniversaries.

Those present were: Misses Anna Hutson, Ted Ruff, Mary Sullivan, Nettie Priest, Marj Ruff, Blanche Tanner, Meriam Bolander, Lillian Ruff, Neva Bolander, Messrs. Hilde Priest, George Beck, George Hibler, Lawrence Williams, Ralph Gebhart, Wilbur Slocum.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Helen Beard, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Beard of Granville street to Mr. Robert S. McCann of Dayton, O. the wedding to take place during the month of June.

The announcement was made at a thimble party given on Friday afternoon by Miss Beard. The favors were Colonial nosegays, and embedded in the center of the cluster of fragrant old fashioned flowers was a tiny Kewpie who carried the scroll on which were the names of Miss Beard and Mr. McCann. The bride-to-be wore a corsage arrangement of the same flowers, the gift of Mr. McCann. The luncheon appointments were delightful, the table being arranged with flowers of varied hue. The guests were Mrs. George Tyson, Misses Bortha Ladimer, Annette Besuden, Juliet Besuden, Meriam Weiland, Louise Norpell, Mary Sherwood Wright, Bertha Fulton, Dorothy Edmiston, and Miss Dorothy McCann of Dayton, who is attending Denison University.

Miss Beard attended The Castle at Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson, while Mr. McCann is a graduate of Denison University and a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. No date has been announced for the wedding.

What Ohio Club Women Are Doing

Mrs. John Mackee, Springfield, Ohio.
Director of Press of The Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

To those who have felt the call of a spring with its first days of sunshine, its myriad activities of budding trees and flowers, there has come the sense of a sudden rush, as though all at once there were many things to do and hardly time enough to do them. All have felt the charm of a world of green with its singing buds. To many this picture of spring lasts throughout the year, but to a few the winter landscape is a more lasting impression, blotting out all other.

The club women who attended the South-west District Meeting in Oxford carried away the memory of a scene of calm serenity. The snow-covered hills, the trees with their boughs laden and glistening with ice, outlined against the sky, cast a spell upon the little town, nestling among the hills—a college town breathing an atmosphere of intelligence and culture.

A fitting opening to the morning session, at which Mrs. Charles J. Hunt, district vice president, presided, was the entrance of the seniors in cap and gown in the chapel of Oxford College. The address of welcome was given by Mrs. W. J. Fraser, and the response by Mrs. Lawrence Maxwell of Cincinnati.

Mrs. W. E. Lewis gave a condensed report of all the activities of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, calling special attention to the work done by the literature department in making an effort to aid small country and village clubs in program making and suggested study.

The department of music has inaugurated a new feature, a state reciprocity bureau, which provides first class artists at minimum rates for the concerts of Federated clubs.

The department of home economics has offered a prize of ten dollars for the best essay or paper on some subject relating to woman as a spender. The work of the art department this year consisted in establishing a permanent art exhibit.

Mrs. Lewis called attention to the fact that at present there is $210.23 in the scholarship fund, and at least $75 will be paid out before the close of the school year. Already three loans have been paid in full. The clubs are asked to send in money promptly in order that the five girls seeking aid for next year may not be disappointed.

The civic committee has been active in instituting "clean up" campaigns for the women's clubs and for the children, the home and garden movement. It is also promoting a crusade against bill-boards and pernicious newspaper stories.

The health department reports a request that all club members should see to having their own babies' births recorded. This is a state law, but is not fully complied with by all physicians. A circular letter on social hygiene is ready for distribution, and when received by club women, a prompt response is urged.

Mrs. Lewis quoted the chairman on conservation as stating that the work on the Ohio River seems reasonably sure of continuation in spite of the fact that the Rivers and Harbors Bill had to share in the general curtailment of expenses by congress. There are many indications which point to the consummation of this hope long cherished by the people of Ohio.

Question Hour.
After a short talk by Mrs. Wade McMillan, Mrs. Charles Fox opened her question box, which included the following questions:

1. Are Women's clubs over-organized? Could we do better work if we had more simple organizations?

2. Shall Women's clubs undertake charitable and philanthropic work, or can such work be better done by church societies?

3. What is your opinion is the strongest point in the work of the General Federation, and which the weakest?

4. What is the feeling in the South-west District about admitting the representation in the General Federation? Or shall visitors not be allowed? What other plan might be considered?

5. Is the women's club movement passing, or at least passing into reform or social service organizations?

6. What may be the plan to have one large club in the smaller towns, with departments in many separate clubs as they do here?

7. If a District long like this accomplishes nothing, what is the number in each other, it accomplish

Laws, Dr. Jane Sherzer, Mrs. Abner L. Whitaker, Mrs. Charles Kumbler, Mrs. W. S. Stearns, Mrs. J. Warren Ritchie, and Miss Alice Brotherton. There were many questions asked from the floor "Shall there be a uniform membership transfer ticket among Federated Club members?" was discussed at large.

After the morning session, Dr. and Mrs. Boyd of the Western College entertained at luncheon in honor of the state president.

The afternoon session was held in the Miami College chapel. A beautiful chorus of girls' voices opened the program. The state president, Miss Anna E. Johnson, gave an inspiring address, "The Meaning of the Ohio Federation."

Mrs. J. Warren Ritchie's lecture, "Literary Ideals of Today," was one long to be remembered with pleasure, for there were many good thoughts for the club women to carry home.

After the intermission a delightful musical program was rendered by Miss Norris, Miss Emma Cone, Miss Powner, and Mr. and Mrs. Le Baron. The visiting club women were entertained at dinner by Dr. Jane Sherzer, president of Oxford College, and later a reception was given in order to give the townspeople an opportunity to meet the visitors.

Home Economics.

Mrs. Ann Giehrich Strong, chairman of the committee on Home Economics, called her mid-year meeting to discuss the best methods of reaching all clubs for the purpose of stimulating study along the lines of Home Economics. It was decided to prepare a pamphlet which will contain a discussion of the following pertinent questions and topics:

By what standards do women select textiles?

What do they buy and why do they buy it?

Divisions of income.

Methods of waste and of saving.

From what point of view does a woman spend money for dress and house furnishing?

The outline will cover aesthetic values as standards in dress, the hygiene of dress, standards of choice in house furnishing, the economics of textiles, the methods of testing and judging textiles, and the basis of relative values. In a short time this instructive and much needed bulletin will be ready for the clubs.

It should not be necessary to recommend to those who are interested in securing the best and most suitable textiles for clothing or house furnishing that they write to any member of this committee for information and suggestions; for one needs but glance at the subjects discussed by Mrs. Strong's committee to find many of the daily "Whys" answered.

The Bulletin will contain an introductory letter from the chairman and the offer of a ten dollar prize for the best essay or paper upon some subject relating to women as spenders.

Women and The Ohio Board of Censors.

If any of our club women are doubtful regarding the need of a woman on the board of censors, it has been suggested that they visit any of the film houses and then judge for themselves. All women know that it is the children who are the most regular patrons of the "movies," and it has been proved that a large percentage of children are "eye-minded." The effect on the youthful mind of many of the scenes depicted by the film companies in other states serves to emphasize the value of our own state board of censors.

The amendment to Article XV, Section 4 of our constitution, granting to women the right to serve on boards or in official positions affecting the welfare of women and children, has given the City Federation of Columbus an opportunity to pass a resolution endorsing the Ohio board of censors, and protesting against the attempt to repeal the censorship law.

Mrs. J. W. Freeland of Marion has succeeded in getting a similar endorsement from the club women of Marion.

Library Extension.
Mrs. Mary E. Downey, chairman of the committee on library extension, has completed her outline of work to be followed through the present administration. Some time this month reports will be sent to the president of the Federated club, and responses are requested before the close of the club year.

It is hoped that there will not be any difficulty in securing from each club a report of the work done along this line. Every club belonging to the Federation has certain obligations which must be met, one of the most important being a ready response to every request made by the department chairman.

The work of the committee on library extension for the year is outlined as follows:

First. To interest clubs to start libraries in towns having none.

Second. To work for tax maintenance for libraries now existing without it.

Third. To urge county seat towns to increase their funds and extend their service by becoming county libraries.

Fourth. In like manner to induce small towns to develop township libraries for the same purpose.

Fifth. To agitate branch library buildings for our cities. Only Cleveland, Cincinnati and Dayton yet have them.

Sixth. To secure buildings for libraries, where needed, through the generosity of Mr. Andrew Carnegie or other benefactors.

Seventh. To co-operate in making a library survey of the state.

Eighth. To urge club women who are members of library boards to attend district and state library meetings.

Ninth. To interest each club in the Ohio Federation to take club membership in the Ohio Library Association by paying the fifty cents annual fee which may be sent to Miss Blanche C. Roberts, Carnegie Library, Columbus.

Tenth. To see that high school students are taught how to use the public libraries in their respective towns.

Eleventh. To work for the observance of a Library Day in every town having a library, by giving a program devoted to library subjects.

Twelfth. To continue interest in collecting books and magazines for completing files in libraries and for distribution to state institutions and county homes for the poor, children's homes, jails and other places of detention.

Thirteenth. To urge the clubs to visit and make a study of their public libraries and see if they are working at their highest point of efficiency.

The president or secretary of every club belonging to the Federation is asked to read this outline before her club, to give it due consideration and mail a report of the library activities of her club to the chairman, Miss Mary E. Downey, Box 594, Columbus, O., for the annual report to the State Federation.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The contents of a boy's pockets are a pretty good indication of the boy's character, and any mother who studies them carefully will find food for thought in plenty.

The boy who loves Nature will fill his pockets with pebbles, shells, bark of trees, bugs, worms—in short, with anything that he desires to study. One boy I know went to school with a couple of snakes in his pockets, but to his great sorrow the reptiles were then taken from him.

The boy who has a mechanical turn of mind will be pretty apt to treasure in his pockets a good sharp knife, a six-inch rule, a pencil, and some bits of wood, wire and twine. He will also be apt to have half-a-dozen queer contrivances the result of his inventive genius.

The idle, thoughtless boy will put anything and everything into his pockets, without regard for rhyme or reason. Articles wholly worthless will predominate.

This is an elaborate American made evening gown in soft brown and French blue tones. A veiled effect in soft brown tulle net with skunk trimming is shown over a rich blue satin brocade. The point basque suggestion in the front, with large butterfly drape in back and long pointed train, gives an idea of the season's most elaborate gowns.

THE BOY FARMER

Or a Member of the Corn Club
By ASA PATRICK

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

PROLOGUE.

A plucky, wide awake, hustling American boy takes a worn-out and abandoned farm and gets busy with his head and his hands to renew the fertility of the soil, make a scientific farmer of himself and capture prizes as a member of the Boys' Corn Club. What he did and how he did it form the plot of an up to date romance of real life that holds the interest from first chapter to last.

CHAPTER I.

"MOTHER," said Sam Powell, "let's go back to the farm this year."

"Well, I do say!" exclaimed Mrs. Powell, smiling. "What ever put that notion into your head, Sam? I thought we'd had enough of farming."

Sam Powell and his mother and a sister a year younger than Sam lived in the outskirts of town and made a scanty living from the sale of butter and milk afforded by two cows and eggs and poultry produced on an acre of land. In addition to this income, the family also had the rent from a little arm of twenty acres, which was situated four miles from town. The amount of the rent, however, was so small as to be hardly worth mentioning. Year after year the land became poorer, and slothful and ignorant tenants let the weeds take the crops.

Sam was sixteen, and he and his sister, Florence, attended the public school in town. Their father had been dead years. Before that time the family had lived on the farm just mentioned. But Mr. Powell had been no more successful than his neighbors or tenants. Not that he hadn't worked hard, for there had been no harder worker in the community than Edward Powell. But something was lacking. He had been unsuccessful and the family had suffered many privations and hardships.

At first the area of the farm had been 60 acres, but as the farmer got deeper and deeper in debt he sold it off, a piece at a time, till there were left only a few house and twenty acres. Considering that there was no possibility of making a living on this amount of land, Mr. Powell would have sold it if he had been able to find a buyer. To buy being at hand, though, the impoverished farmer moved his family to town and left it. Two months later he was stricken with fever and died. Then the struggle for a living fell on Mrs. Powell and the two children, for Sam and Florence were large enough to be of much help to their mother.

So it was with much surprise that Mrs. Powell heard Sam express the wish to go back to the farm. They had been hard now, it is true, but then it had been worse. Her own memories of their days on the farm were anything but pleasant, and she knew that Sam had not forgotten. Much as she loved her stock and growing things, she didn't want to go back to that life again.

It was Saturday afternoon, and Sam and just come in from town. His eyes were bright with the new idea he had in mind.

"It's this way, mother," said Sam, smiling to Mrs. Powell's question and comment. "Since I've been going to high school I've learned a whole lot of new things about farming. They are of new things, either—just the simplest facts about agriculture. Our teacher says they are the A B C's of business, but I never heard of them till our class began studying 'The Elements of Agriculture.'"

"That's what they call book farming, am?" said Mrs. Powell, "and how farmers would laugh at you if they heard you talking about it."

"Some farmers might, but not all of them," Sam replied. "Bill Googe and his family would, because they don't know anything about it. That's just why it is, mother. The ones that make fun of scientific farming don't know what they're talking about."

"Well, Miles Fagan is a hard worker, and so was your father. I don't believe anybody ever worked harder or could do more than them two."

"It's not all in hard work, though. The main thing is in knowing how to work. We are just now learning how. Some don't know how yet and won't try to learn. It wasn't father's fault that he failed, because no one knew anything about the new farming then. But that's why father failed, and Fagan is farming just like father did. He's got the chance to learn better, but won't do it. Bill Googe won't work much, of course, but he'd do a lot better if he tried the new way."

"What is this new way? I thought farming was farming."

"It would take a long time to explain it all," said Sam, "but it mostly depends on what kind of soil you have, how you plow it and how you plant and cultivate your crops."

"Did you learn all this out of the book on farming?" asked Mrs. Powell.

"Well, I've learned a good deal from the book," Sam explained, "but not all I know. The government has appointed an agent for this county, and he is going to spend part of his time here next year instructing the farmers and the boys. I heard him make two talks downtown. He's anxious for me to go out on our little place this year. He says nearly everybody out in that neighborhood is like Bill Googe and Miles Fagan, and he wants me to show them a thing or two. He says he'll help in every way he can."

"I do like the country," said Mrs. Powell, "and I would like to go back on the old place, but the land's worn out, and I'm afraid we'll make a failure."

"Well, a failure couldn't hurt us much, mother," said Sam. "It's all to gain and nothing to lose. But we won't fail. That land is not worn out. If I can't fix it so that it raises twice as much to the acre as any farm around there, then we'll move back to town and I'll never say another word about farming."

"But we have no team," objected Mrs. Powell, "and what would we do for supplies?"

"I'll get Bill Googe to break the land. I won't need a team for anything else. The old tools father had will do, and the horse and spring wagon we have will be all right for what hauling there is. The pasture will save a lot of feed for the cows, and I think we can fix it so as to keep our milk and butter customers. I've already seen about the supplies. Mr. Wilson said that he'd let me have groceries and seed or anything I have to have on credit."

"I'm afraid my mind is too changeable, Sam," said his mother. "You know you've been talking of being a merchant. Have you changed your mind about that?"

"Yes, I have, mother. You see, I knew what farming in the old way was like, and I didn't know there was any other way. I thought it would always be like it has been, and I didn't want any more of it in mine. That's why I thought about being a merchant. But things have changed. People are learning a new way to farm, and it's going to be the freest and surest paying business there is."

"Well, then," Mrs. Powell agreed at last, "we'll try it one year."

"Good!" exclaimed Sam, delighted. "You just watch me get busy. I'm going out to the farm next Saturday."

The next week was an impatient one for Sam. He told his teacher and a few friends about his plans, and the latter were much interested. Some said that they would like to go to the country themselves.

"Well, you can come out to see me when you have time," Sam told them. "That won't be like living there, but it will be a change."

"I'll be there for one," exclaimed Joe Watson.

"I for another," said Andrew White.

"No use for me to tell you, Sam," Fred Martin added. "I'll come."

"Of course," Sam exclaimed. "It may be so sometimes that I can't show you a good time. I'll be pretty busy, but you know you can make free around me. I can always tell you where the good fishing holes are in the creek and where the wild blackberry patch is located. I guess you can make out if I do that. If I tell you where the watermelons are you wouldn't have to have me along to show you what to do to them, would you?"

"Not on your life!" they all exclaimed at once and laughed.

"Won't that be fine?" said Joe Watson, his mouth watering at the thought of the berries and the melons.

"Say, though, Sam," Fred Martin spoke up suddenly, "you don't think we're going to come out there and loaf around and have a good time while you are at work, do you?"

"Well, I don't see anything wrong in it."

"Maybe not, but we'll not do that way, just the same. I'll tell you what we'll do. Any time that you have work on hand when we come out we'll help you out so that you can take a half day off."

"That's the idea," seconded Andrew. "If we come out Saturday morning, say, and work till noon you could take the afternoon off, couldn't you?"

"Well, I should think I could," said Sam. "But I wouldn't like to have you work for me for nothing."

"Oh, don't worry," said Joe. "We'll get paid. We'll take it out in watermelons."

"I didn't know that you liked to work so well," said Sam. "You might as well go out with me next Saturday. We're not going to move until next spring, but I must mend the fences and get the ground in shape."

"Sure, we'll go," they all said. "Where'll we find you and what time shall we wait?"

"I'll be at home," Sam told them. "Come about 7 o'clock, and we'll drive out in the spring wagon."

Before Saturday came round Sam could not refrain from hunting up his new friend, the government agent, to tell him that he was going out on the little farm for that year at least.

The agent, Mr. Burns, was delighted at the news.

"Well," he said, "I'm glad to hear that. Miles Fagan is, as they say, from Missouri. He must be shown. It's just a waste of breath to talk to him. He won't listen to anything. I tried to get him to plant just one acre and cultivate it according to our methods. But he said he didn't have time for any such foolishness. He'd been farming long enough, he said, to know something about it."

"I tried to persuade him to allow his son, Bob, to join the Boys' Corn Club and plant an acre of corn to be cultivated under my direction. But he wouldn't do that either, and, in fact, he talked rather insultingly to me. Of course if it was just himself that was concerned I wouldn't bother any more with him. A man like that doesn't deserve much. But we can't afford to resent such talk from anybody, Sam. We just consider that it is because he doesn't understand and let it go. Besides, it's the welfare of the whole country that we are looking after. We want to make better farmers out of the boys. We want Bob Fagan to be a more successful farmer than his father has been, and, you see, we can't do that without convincing his father so that he will let us teach Bob.

"Now, your farm and Fagan's join, don't they?"

"Yes, sir," Sam replied; "there's just a fence between his field and ours."

"Do you know what he is going to plant next to your field?"

"Oh, yes. He always plants corn there. Hasn't had anything else there for five years."

"The very thing!" exclaimed Mr. Burns. "Now, I want you to come down to the courthouse next Monday morning. We are going to have a meeting of the Boys' Corn Club then, and I want you to join. You know, there is $600 to be given in prizes in this county. There is a chance for you to win about $200 on a contest acre of corn."

"That is a whole lot of money," said Sam, "and I am going to try hard to win the first prize, though my land is pretty well run down."

"You can fix that all right," Mr. Burns assured him. "Of course you may not get the whole field as well fertilized as it should be, but you can get the acre for corn in good condition. And I want you to lay off that acre just across the fence from Fagan's. We'll certainly show him something this year about growing corn."

"That's the poorest land on the place," said Sam.

"So much the better," Mr. Burns assured him. "Fagan can't say then that your crop is due to better land."

"Oh, no, he can't say that, for his land is much richer than mine! Mine has been neglected so long! I'll sure have to go to work on it if I'm going to make a good showing this year."

"Yes, that's right. Get it fertilized and plowed deep as soon as you can. This is January. It should have been plowed three months ago. How much land have you?"

"Twenty acres, but five of it are in pasture. I'm going to hire a man to plow the field, as I have only one horse."

"That would be best," said Mr.

Burns, "but you must keep an account of all the work done on the contest acre, for you know it will have to be figured in on the cost of the corn."

"I'll do that," Sam agreed. "In fact, I'm going to keep books on everything—crops and stock too. I want to know when I make or lose."

"You're on the right track," Mr. Burns replied. "It is just as necessary to keep books on the farm as it is in any other business, for farming is a business, Sam, and a good business, too, if you do it in a business-like way."

"I know that what you say is true," Mr. Burns, Sam declared. "I don't know very much about farming yet, but I'm going to learn. I want you to give me a list of books to read and study on the subject."

"Well, the first thing for you to do," suggested the agent, "is to send to the state and national departments of agriculture for all the bulletins about the crops you are going to grow. You will be surprised at the number of them and at the information in them. Here are the addresses and the names of some books for you to get."

"Thank you," said Sam, "and now I must be going. Bill Googe is to be in town today, and I want to see him about the plowing. Goodbye until Monday. I'll see you at the meeting."

(To be Continued Monday.)

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much. Also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While wisp, gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Agents, Hall's drug store.

THE BOY FARMER

Or a Member of the Corn Club
By ASA PATRICK

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

PROLOGUE.

A plucky, wide awake, hustling American boy takes a worn-out and abandoned farm and gets busy with his head and his hands to renew the fertility of the soil, make a scientific farmer of himself and capture prizes as a member of the Boys' Corn Club. What he did and how he did it form the plot of an up to date romance of real life that holds the interest from first chapter to last.

CHAPTER I.

"MOTHER," said Sam Powell, "let's go back to the farm this year."

"Well, I do say," exclaimed Mrs. Powell, smiling. "What ever put that notion into your head, Sam? I thought we'd had enough of farming."

Sam Powell and his mother and a sister a year younger than Sam lived on the outskirts of town and made a scanty living from the sale of butter and milk afforded by two cows and eggs and poultry produced on an acre lot. In addition to this income, the family also had the rent from a little farm of twenty acres, which was situated four miles from town. The amount of the rent, however, was so small as to be hardly worth mentioning. Year after year the land became poorer, and slothful and ignorant tenants let the weeds take the crops.

Sam was sixteen, and he and his sister, Florence, attended the public school in town. Their father had been dead four years. Before that time the family had lived on the farm just mentioned. But Mr. Powell had been no more successful than his neighbors or the tenants. Not that he hadn't worked hard, for there had been no harder worker in the community than Ed ward Powell. But something was lacking. He had been unsuccessful and the family had suffered many privations and hardships.

At first the area of the farm had been 100 acres, but as the farmer got deeper and deeper in debt he sold it off, a piece at a time, till there were left only the house and twenty acres. Considering that there was no possibility of making a living on this amount of ground, Mr. Powell would have sold it also had he been able to find a buyer. No buyer being at hand, though, the disheartened farmer moved his family to town and left it. Two months later he was stricken with fever and died. Then the struggle for a living fell on Mrs. Powell and the two children, for Sam and Florence were large enough to be of much help to their mother.

So it was with much surprise that Mrs. Powell heard Sam express the wish to go back to the farm. They lived hard now, it is true, but then it had been worse. Her own memories of their days on the farm were anything but pleasant, and she knew that Sam had not forgotten. Much as she liked stock and growing things, she didn't want to go back to that life again.

It was Saturday afternoon, and Sam had just come in from town. His eyes were bright with the new idea he had in mind.

"It's this way, mother," said Sam, replying to Mrs. Powell's question and comment. "Since I've been going to high school I've learned a whole lot of new things about farming. They are not new things, either—just the simplest facts about agriculture. Our teacher says they are the A B C's of the business, but I never heard of them till our class began studying 'The Elements of Agriculture.'"

"That's what they call book farming," said Mrs. Powell, "and how farmers would laugh at you if they heard you talking about it."

"Some farmers might, but not all of them," Sam replied. "Bill Googe and Miles Fagan would, because they don't know anything about it. That's just how it is, mother. The ones that make work on hand when we come out we'll help you out so that you can take a half day off."

"That's the idea," seconded Andrew. "If we come out Saturday morning, say, and work till noon you could take the afternoon off, couldn't you?"

"Well, I should think I could," said Sam. "But I wouldn't like to have you work for me for nothing."

"Oh, don't worry," said Joe. "We'll get paid. We'll take it out in water-melons."

"I didn't know that you liked to work so well," said Sam. "You might as well go out with me next Saturday. We're not going to move until next spring, but I must mend the fences and get the ground in shape."

"Sure, we'll go," they all said. "Where'll we find you and what time shall we start?"

"I'll be at home," Sam told them. "Come about 7 o'clock, and we'll drive out in the spring wagon."

Before Saturday came round Sam could not refrain from hunting up his new friend, the government agent, to tell him that he was going out on the little farm for that year at least.

The agent, Mr. Burns, was delighted at the news.

"Well," he said, "I'm glad to hear that. Miles Fagan is, as they say, from Missouri. He must be shown. It's just a waste of breath to talk to him. He won't listen to anything. I tried to get him to plant just one acre and cultivate it according to our methods. But he said he didn't have time for any such foolishness. He'd been farming long enough, he said, to know something about it."

"I tried to persuade him to allow his son, Bob, to join the Boys' Corn club and plant an acre of corn to be cultivated under my direction. But he wouldn't do that either, and, in fact, he talked rather insolently to me. Of course if it was just himself that was concerned I wouldn't bother any more with him. A man like that doesn't deserve much. But we can't afford to resent such talk from anybody, Sam. We just consider that it is because he doesn't understand and let it go. Besides, it's the welfare of the whole country that we are looking after. We run of scientific farming don't know what they're talking about."

"Well, Miles Fagan is a hard worker, and so was your father. I don't believe anybody ever worked harder or could do more than them two."

"It's not all in hard work, though. The main thing is in knowing how to work. We are just now learning how. Some don't know how yet and won't try to learn. It wasn't father's fault that he failed, because no one knew anything about the new farming then. But that's why father failed, and Fagan is farming just like father did. He's got the chance to learn better, but won't do it. Bill Googe won't work much, of course, but he'd do a lot better if he tried the new way."

"What is this new way? I thought farming was farming."

"It would take a long time to explain it all," said Sam, "but it mostly depends on what kind of soil you have, how you plow it and how you plant and cultivate your crops."

"Did you learn all this out of the book on farming?" asked Mrs. Powell.

"Well, I've learned a good deal from the book," Sam explained, "but not all I know. The government has appointed an agent for this country, and he is going to spend part of his time here next year instructing the farmers and the boys. I heard him make two talks downtown. He's anxious for me to go out on our little place this year. He says nearly everybody out in that neighborhood is like Bill Googe and Miles Fagan, and he wants me to show them a thing or two. He says he'll help in every way he can."

"Well, a failure couldn't hurt us much, mother," said Sam. "It's all to gain and nothing to lose. But we won't fail. That land is not worn out. If I can't fix it so that it raises twice as much to the acre as any farm around there, then we'll move back to town and I'll never say another word about farming."

"But we have no team," objected Mrs. Powell, "and what would we do for supplies?"

"I'll get Bill Googe to break the land. I won't need a team for anything else. The old tools father had will do, and the horse and spring wagon we have will be all right for that hauling there is. The pasture will save a lot of feed for the cows, and I think we can fix it so as to keep our milk and butter customers. I've already seen about the supplies. Mr. Wilson said that he'd let me have groceries and seed or anything I have to have on credit."

"I'm afraid your mind is too changeable, Sam," said his mother. "You know you've been talking of being a merchant. Have you changed your mind about that?"

"Yes, I have, mother. You see, I knew what farming in the old way was like, and I didn't know there was any other way. I thought it would always be like it has been, and I didn't want any more of it in mine. That's why I thought about being a merchant. But things have changed. People are learning a new way to farm, and it's going to be the freest and surest paying business there is."

"Well, then," Mrs. Powell agreed at last, "we'll try it one year."

"Good!" exclaimed Sam, delighted. "You just watch me get busy. I'm going out to the farm next Saturday."

The next week was an impatient one for Sam. He told his teacher and a few friends about his plans, and the latter were much interested. Some said that they would like to go to the country themselves.

"Well, you can come out to see me when you have time," Sam told them. "That won't be like living there, but it will be a change."

"I'll be there for one," exclaimed Joe Watson.

"I for another," said Andrew White.

"No use for me to tell you, Sam," Fred Martin added. "I'll come."

"Of course," Sam explained. "It may be so sometimes that I can't show you a good time. I'll be pretty busy, but you know you can make free around me. I can always tell you where the good fishing holes are in the creek and where the wild blackberry patch is located. I guess you can make out if I do that. If I tell you where the water-melons are you wouldn't have to have me along to show you what to do to them, would you?"

"Not on your life!" they all exclaimed at once and laughed.

"Well, that be fine!" said Joe Watson, his mouth watering at the thought of the berries and the melons.

"Say, though, Sam," Fred Martin spoke up suddenly, "you don't think we're going to come out there and loaf around and have a good time while you are at work, do you?"

"Well, I don't see anything wrong in it."

"Maybe not, but we'll not do that way, just the same. I'll tell you what we'll do. Any time that you have

want to make better farmers out of the boys. We want Bob Fagan to be a more successful farmer than his father has been, and, you see, we can't do that without convincing his father so that he will let us teach Bob.

"Now, your farm and Fagan's join, don't they?"

"Yes, sir," Sam replied; "there's just a fence between his field and ours."

"Do you know what he is going to plant next to your field?"

"Oh, yes. He always plants corn there. Hasn't had anything else there for five years."

"The very thing!" exclaimed Mr. Burns. "Now, I want you to come down to the courthouse next Monday morning. We are going to have a meeting of the Boys' Corn club then, and I want you to join. You know, there is $500 to be given in prizes in this country. There is a chance for you to win about $250 on a contest acre of corn."

"That is a whole lot of money," said Sam, "and I am going to try hard to win the first prize, though my land is pretty well run down."

"You can fix that all right," Mr. Burns assured him. "Of course you may not get the whole field as well fertilized as it should be, but you can get the acre for corn in good condition. And I want you to lay off that acre just across the fence from Fagan's. We'll certainly show him something this year about growing corn."

"That's the poorest land on the place," said Sam.

"So much the better," Mr. Burns assured him. "Fagan can't say then that your crop is due to better land."

"Oh, no, he can't say that, for his land is much richer than mine! Mine has been neglected so long! I'll sure have to go to work on it if I'm going to make a good showing this year."

"Yes, that's right. Get it fertilized and plowed deep as soon as you can. This is January. It should have been plowed three months ago. How much land have you?"

"Twenty acres, but five of it are in pasture. I'm going to hire a man to plow the field, as I have only one horse."

"That would be best," said Mr.

Burns, "but you must keep an account of all the work done on the contest acre, for you know it will have to be figured in on the cost of the corn."

"I'll do that," Sam agreed. "In fact, I'm going to keep books on everything—crops and stock too. I want to know when I make or lose."

"You're on the right track," Mr. Burns replied. "It is just as necessary to keep books on the farm as it is in any other business, for farming is a business, Sam, and a good business, too, if you do it in a business-like way."

"I know that what you say is true," Mr. Burns, Sam declared. "I don't know very much about farming yet, but I'm going to learn. I want you to give me a list of books to read and study on the subject."

"Well, the first thing for you to do," suggested the agent, "is to send to the state and national departments of agriculture for all the bulletins about the crops you are going to grow. You will be surprised at the number of them and at the information in them. Here are the addresses and the names of some books for you to get."

"Thank you," said Sam, "and now I must be going. Bill Googe is to be in town today, and I want to see him about the plowing. Goodbye until Monday. I'll see you at the meeting."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting in the natural healing process. GLASS OF SALTS

CLEANS KIDNEYS

If your back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active. Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much. Also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

COMB SAGE TEA

INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant; remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Mix the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant, and you appear years younger. Agents, Hall's drug store.

Try This For Neuralgia.

Thousands of people keep on suffering with Neuralgia because they do not know what to do for it. Neuralgia is a pain in the nerves. What you want to do is to soothe the nerve itself. Apply Sloan's Liniment to the surface over the painful part—do not rub it in. Sloan's Liniment penetrates very quickly to the sore, irritated nerve and allays the inflammation. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against Colds, Sore and Swollen Joints, Lumbago, Sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

COLGATE IS AT GRANVILLE
TONIGHT AT 8:00

Basketball fans are most interested in the result of the Colgate-Denison game at Granville tonight and the Oberlin-State game at Columbus. Denison is perhaps the representative team of the middle west and Colgate is prominent in Eastern basketball circles. The result of the meeting of the east and the west will be watched with considerable interest.
Denison has met and defeated Oberlin at Granville and has yet to meet Oberlin on their own floor.
The State-Oberlin game will give an opportunity of comparing Denison and State and followers of the game are interested in the relative strength of the two teams. Tonight's game at Granville will be called at 8 o'clock.

and Henry Deminger were arrested
Friday evening by Acting Police Chief Hager and Officers Hurlbaugh and Donley on charges of violating the city ordinances requiring all ped-ated from blame in the offense and the charge against him was dismissed.

The two who pleaded guilty, were fined $25 and costs each and ordered committed to the city prison until the amounts were paid.
Mayor Bigbee stated that the city officials were annoyed all last summer by these two men who persisted in operating wagons without a license. City Sealer White states that the men have until Saturday refused to have their measures inspected and sealed as required by law. Saturday morning they visited the sealer and had their measures approved.

BURSTING MAIN
FOLLOWS THAW;
REPAIRS MADE

As a result of the thawing of ice in the 12-inch water main which passes over the Watson street bridge, residents on that street were without water for more than 24 hours Friday and Saturday. The same accident was responsible for the increased water pressure for about two hours Friday just after noon and it also caused a loss of water from the reservoir on Horn's hill which amounted to a great many gallons.
During the recent cold snap, the mains froze, though not badly enough to interfere with the flow of water throw them. When the coating of ice inside the pipes thawed, the cracks made by the freezing developed and great jets of water sprayed from the openings.
As soon as possible after the report of the accident reached the public service office, Director Christian ordered the reservoir shut off, until valves could be closed isolating the break. This work required the better part of an hour.
A force of men was put to work at once on the break and it is hoped to have the work done probably Saturday.

LINE TROUBLE WAS CAUSE OF
THE DARKNESS

Line trouble on Circuit No. 8, located in North Newark, was responsible for the darkness of the street lights on this circuit Friday night.
Linemen from the light plant traced the trouble as quickly as possible and it was repaired as soon as located.
"This sort of trouble would come just the same whether we bought current or manufactured it," said Service Director Christian with a smile as he explained the darkness.

QUARANTINE
RESTRICTIONS
ESTABLISHED

A farm west of this city has been placed under quarantine restrictions after an investigation had been made by a representative from the state dairy and food commission, state live stock commission and the local board of health. The quarantine was authorized on account of evidences of tuberculosis in cattle and unsanitary condition. Nothing can be shipped from the farm in the way of live stock nor can any one residing on it barter butter, milk or other produce until the quarantine regulations have been lifted. Local health officials state that other quarantines may be established unless radical changes are made.

FOUR PLAYERS
DRAW RELEASES
FROM THE CUBS

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Four players, including Tom Leach, last year's captain of the team, were unconditionally released today by the Chicago Nationals. The others were Charles Smith and Edward Stack, pitchers, and William Sweeney, second baseman. Leach before joining the Chicago Nationals, was a star outfielder for the Pittsburgh club and was one of the best known players in the country.
The unconditional releases given were issued by Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Chicago Nationals, and according to him, were part of a policy which he has adopted to build up a team of young men.
Tommy Leach has been prominent in the baseball world for nearly 15 years.
"I let the cat go," said Bresnahan, "to make room for young re-leasees."
Called to front.
Mrs. Robert Allard was called to fronton, O., today by the death of her mother, Mr. George Steele.

TWO FAST GAMES
FRIDAY NIGHT AT HICKEY HALL

The smallest crowd which has yet attended a high school game, witnessed the two best games seen this season when Newark defeated Columbus West High by a score of 33 to 24 and the Freshman defeated the Seniors 12 to 5 at Hickey Hall Friday night. Both games were furiously fought by the four teams participating. Many of the players left the contests minus patches of skin lost during the skirmishing for points but no serious casualties resulted.
Several times during the progress of the two games, the situations became exciting and the crowd so noisy that the referee's whistle could not be heard above the din.
Not a man on the floor in either game showed the least hesitancy in plunging into the rough and tumble scrap for advantage and despite the rough character of the play, there was nothing unsportsman-like in the conduct of the men.

Center Stephan was probably more roughly handled than any other man and once several minutes were taken out while he recovered from an injury to his back. He was soon up and coming again and in spite of the injury he gave a good account of himself during the remaining minutes of play.
Several times the two regular teams were well nigh winded and only the "opportunistic" injury of a player on one side or the other, hesitating time out, saved them from utter exhaustion.
In the first half of the regular game, Captain Owen of Columbus and the Newark team vied with each other in scoring points. Warner, Rawlings, Stephan and Jones, tossed baskets in quick succession with Owens keeping close to them. Owens was assisted by Telham and Garret and when the first half ended the score stood at tie, 16-16.
After a ten minute rest, both teams appeared refreshed and renewed the game with a splendid determination. In this half, Stephan showed unusual class, scoring five baskets, many of them from difficult positions.

Newark showed better staying qualities than Columbus and in the last half overwhelmed their Columbus opponents by a nine point advantage. The injection of McFeeney into the game in the last half strengthened Columbus considerably and he scored four of Newark's eight points.

Jones, usually Newark's star, was off form during the entire game.
Though he had many opportunities, he scored but six points, tossing three baskets out of many chances.
Many of his shots came so close that the crowd held its breath while the ball rolled about on the hoops or balanced perilously on the iron rod only to fall outside the basket.
Splendid guarding marked the work of both teams.

FRESHMEN WIN TOO.
The Freshman basketball players showed the Seniors what speed and determination could do in removing the handicap of size and experience.
In the fast and furious game which preceded the regular high school event, the Freshmen defeated the Seniors by a score of 12 to 5. Mayer was the Freshman star while Powers of the same team, about the size of a pint of cider, played a furious game. Evans and Irwin scored the points for the Seniors. The lineup

WASHINGTON BANQUET AT GRANVILLE

On Next Friday Evening Promises To Be a Fine Affair—News of College Town.

(Special to the Advocate.)
Granville, Feb. 13.—Judging from the personnel of the committee having in charge the Washington Banquet to be held on Friday evening, February 19, it would seem that success is already assured, as the members represent every organization in college. They are: Messrs. R. Williams, Roy Duerr, Ralph Jones, Henry Scott, Randolph Rector, E. C. Mills, Misses Virginia Putnam, Hazel Bohm, Florence Foster, Marjorie Rittig. This committee is thoroughly organized and making all possible preparations for the greatest Washington Banquet in the history of Denison. Mrs. Atogge will furnish the repast, which will be served in Shepley's Commons.

An unusually large attendance is expected as the sale of tickets already has been greater than expected. The fact that the sororities will hold their annual banquet next week will bring quite a number of the Shepley's Commons alumnae back, who will attend the Washington banquet. Hon. Frank E. Whittemore, '92, will be one of the speakers.

Prof. and Mrs. C. D. Coons entertained a few friends at supper after the Denison-Miami basketball game last evening at their charming home in Pearl street. This informal and delightful style of entertaining has become quite popular this winter among the younger matrons, partly because it is difficult to secure a date that does not conflict either with conference or inter-class contests in Cleveland hall.

Mr. John Akim, with his daughter, Miss Lucy, left yesterday morning for Los Angeles, Calif. for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. Full. Their home will be occupied during their absence by Mr. Horley Shirk and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Roley of Youngstown are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Evans in West Maple street.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. Frederick Ashton, Friday afternoon, February 12th at 2 o'clock, and enjoyed the excellent program presented. The topic was "Frances Willard," and the talks were full of help and inspiration.

The pulpit of the Presbyterian church will be occupied by Rev. A. R. Hendrickson of Lima tomorrow morning and evening.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Smoots that they are enjoying their sojourn in California. They are at present in Los Angeles, and expect to be in San Diego next week.

Prof. and Mrs. Karl Eschman, accompanied by their house guest, Miss Neave, left last evening for Dresden, O., where they will spend the weekend.

Phi Gamma Delta will entertain this evening with the annual pig dinner.

Sigma Chi has as house guests Judge Howard Ferris of Cincinnati, and C. H. Eldridge of No. 39 Wall street, New York.

Basket ball fans are looking forward to an exciting contest in Cleveland Hall this evening between Colgate and Denison. This is the first Eastern College to engage the Big Red team, and though not a conference game, victory will mean a good deal to Denison.

PLEADED GUILTY WHITE SLAVERY

Two Men Who Transported Girls from Newark to Indiana Sent to Prison.

At a special hearing before Judge Anderson of the United States Court at Indianapolis on Feb. 11th, J. J. Cunningham and Chas. Turner pleaded guilty to the charge of white slavery under the Mann act.

They had been previously indicted by a federal grand jury for transporting Mildred Deemer and Stella Graham from Newark, to Indianapolis on or about Nov. 3rd, 1914. A strong chain of evidence had been thrown around these men, and their attorneys finally advised them to enter pleas of guilty.

Attorney H. J. Alexander of this city represented the United States Department of Justice in this matter, and was highly complimented for his prompt and efficient work in handling the matter. The two men were each sentenced to three years in Leavenworth prison.

REORGANIZE THE FESTIVAL ASSOCIATION

Music Lovers at Granville Will Co-operate in Making It a Grand Success.

(Special to the Advocate.)
Granville, O., Feb. 13.—It is a matter for congratulation to Granville people that the old Granville Musical Festival Association has been reorganized by representatives of all the musical organizations in the town as well as in the college. At a meeting held in the Baptist church yesterday afternoon at Dean Eschman's request, plans were formulated on a comprehensive basis, whereby the whole community may become imbued with the spirit of co-operation in bringing the association once more to the success and prestige enjoyed some years ago. It should be easy to secure 600 subscriptions to a course of seven high class entertainments including a Symphony Orchestra, especially when the course is offered for the amazingly low price of two dollars a ticket. The first offering on the course is the Philharmonic String Quartette next Tuesday evening, February 16, which will play a magnificent program. Reserved seats on sale at Ullman's.

Forty Days in Jail.

Long is charged with contributing to the delinquency of Miss Allman and the girl is charged with being a delinquent. She is not yet 17 years old. After hearing the evidence, Judge Hunter sentenced Long to the county jail for 40 days and assessed the costs against him. A transcript of the case was sent to the Columbus juvenile court, and the girl turned over to that court so that disposition might be made of her case there.

What a Dreadnought Costs.

Some idea of the fighting power of a Dreadnought may be gathered from the fact that the extreme range of its guns is twenty-five miles, while they can be very effective at a range of twelve miles. They are most deadly, however, at a range of between five or six miles.

The twelve inch gun of a Dreadnought is fifty feet long and if set up on end would be higher than many a country church tower. The cost of each gun is about $100,000, while each time it is fired $100 vanishes into the air.

As a protection against the guns of the enemy a Dreadnought is covered with armor costing $120 per ton, and as something like 4,800 tons are used in covering the vessel this means an expenditure of close upon $500,000.

Boilers and machinery at $325,000, motor and steamboats at $5,000, torpedo tubes at $5,000 each and torpedoes at $500 each, and $50,000 for searchlights and electrical fittings are other items in the bill which go to make a Dreadnought the costliest vessel afloat.—Pearson's

WATER WORKS DESTROYED IN MEXICO CITY

(Associated Press Telegram.)
Washington, Feb. 13. Zapata forces have destroyed the water works in Mexico City, the food situation has become more critical and indications are that Carranza forces may soon evacuate. Official advices to the American government today.

Officials here are much concerned over the reports which have been coming for the last three days. With lack of food and unrest in the population, and the fact that Mexico City is of no great strategic importance, diplomats in Mexico City fear the place may be let without semblance of authority at any moment.

Advices to the state department from Piedras Negras report that on Thursday, Villa troops evacuated Monterrey and moved south, the Carranza forces under General Luis Guitierrez, occupying the town without resistance.

The Spanish minister, who was expelled from Mexico City by General Carranza, went aboard the battleship Delaware as a guest of Capt. Rogers, but will sail for Havana, February 16 on a Spanish liner.

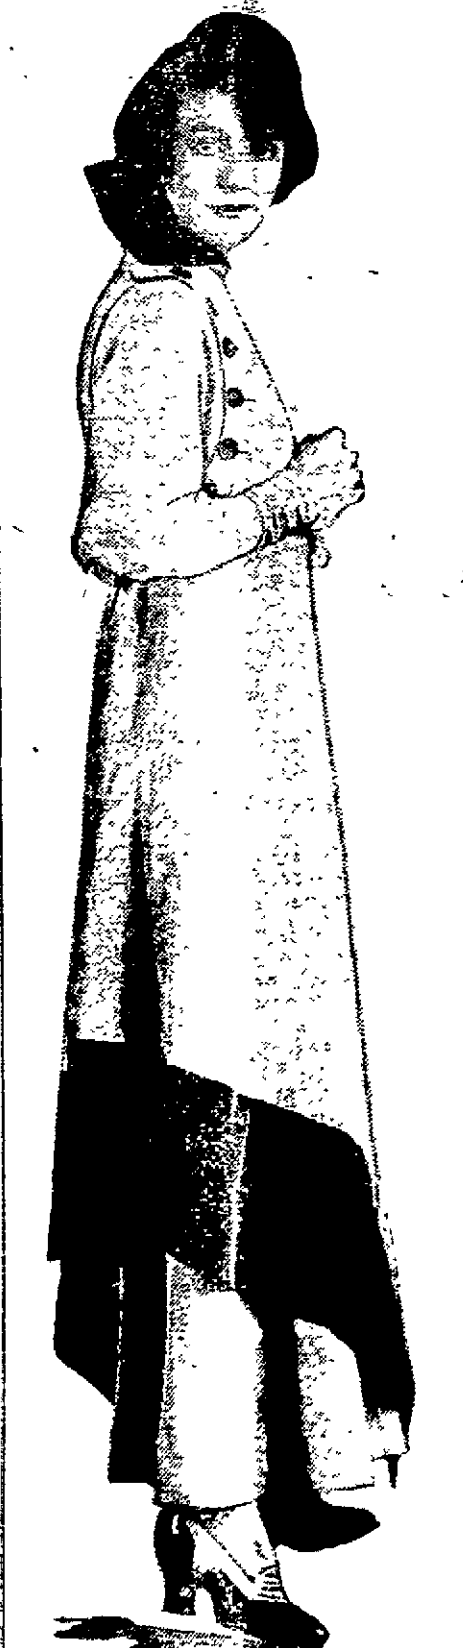

CUNARD LINER MAY AGAIN FLY AMERICAN FLAG

(Associated Press Telegram.)
New York, Feb. 13.—The possibility that the Cunard liner Orduna, due to leave this port today for Liverpool, might again fly the American flag upon reaching the Irish sea, as she did for several hours after leaving Queenstown on her last voyage westward was discussed in maritime circles here today, but no statement was made by any of the line's officials.

"We cannot talk," said one of the officials. "We do not know what precautions, if any, will be taken by the Orduna and if we did know, we could not tell."

The Orduna should reach the Irish sea under ordinary sailing conditions from three to five days after Feb. 13, the time set by the German government for declaring effective the war area in British waters. Ten days is usually required by the Orduna to make the trip from here to Liverpool. This would place her in Liverpool, Tuesday, Feb. 23.

A capacity audience again greeted the Elk minstrel last night at the Auditorium theatre, every seat in the house being sold. The performers all did splendidly, indeed many were the compliments bestowed upon every person participating. The show had the professional swing and the intricate dances and marches have never been excelled by any minstrel show seen in this city.

H. O. Stanton of Zanesville, is entitled to all the credit for the good work of the singers, both soloists and chorus men, and the marches and drills, which materially assisted in making the minstrel the acme of perfection. Mr. Stanton is an old hand at the business and under his able guide everything moved along like clock work.

The Elk minstrel committee composed of H. D. Hale, chairman, James R. Cooper, secretary, Messrs. John Ankele, Dr. Jud T. Lewis, Homer Jones and W. J. Koblens have been the recipients of many congratulations for the splendid entertainment which was given this year.

Mr. Smith Redman had charge of the advertising and his good work on the program contributed in a large measure to make the show a success financially.

The Elks are grateful for the patronage accorded them by the public. It will always serve as a reminder that their efforts to assist in the betterment of mankind is appreciated.

Last evening after the performance a clam chowder and baked oyster luncheon was served at the Elk club rooms for the performers, visiting Elks and local members. It was prepared by the Elk minstrel entertainment committee, Messrs. Charles Dean W. C. Wells and Harry Starr. An impromptu program was given and the affair was very enjoyable.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY TOMORROW

The Central Church of Christ has set an aim for six hundred in the Bible school tomorrow. Tags have been printed, bearing numbers from one to six hundred. These were placed in the hands of tag leaders, who have secured signatures of persons promising to be present. Every member of the church is expected to help make the six hundred unless prevented by sickness. There will be hearty handshakes and a lot of happy folk will meet you at 9:15 a. m. The little ones are coming and the big ones. Those who have been away a long, long time and those who have been out for only a week are going to be there. Come promptly at 9:15 so you will be ready to adjourn with the classes. The orchestra will begin to play at 9 o'clock. The music, the singing, the inspiring talks and the teachers with their lessons will make every heart glad. Friends are urged to be present and help the school "hit the mark."
